MANDARINS

with MANDY

I'm like a sweet burst of sunshine in the middle of Winter!

Mandarins are a special kind of Tangerine that originally came from Japan. That's where they get the name "Satsuma". Mandarins like the cold more than most citrus fruits and are known for being sweet and easy to eat. However, handle them gently because their loose skin tears and bruises easily.

DID YOU KNOW?

Mandarins grown in California are often called "Christmas Oranges" because they are available during the holiday season.

EAT MORE MANDARINS!

Mandarins are a great snack. They are full of VITAMIN C, which you need in the winter to keep your immune system strong. You can add them to salads or sauces or smoothies to add sweetness and extra nutrition.
